Baskets filled with white and peach gladioluses and peach carnations decorated the sanctuary.

Donna Kramer of Wayland was the organist and Bill Kramer was the guitarist. Also, they were the vocalists.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her satin gown was designed with a sweetheart neckline, short pouf sleeves detailed with Alencon lace, and an Alencon lace and pearl adorned elongated bodice extending over a satin skirt with a chapel train gathered to a satin bow. She wore a beaded headband with a side arrangement of roses and pearl sprays to secure a fingertip veil. She carried a family prayer book topped with a cascade of white roses, freesia, carnations, English ivy and white ribbon streamers.

Teri Lynn Forsythe of Wayland was the maid of honor for her sister. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Kimberly Baldwin of Philadelphia, sister of the bridegroom, Cindy Jean Cornish of Dundee, Shelley Fox of Springwater, Kim Brown of Wayland and Cindy Quanz of Wayland.

Alfred Landino of Fredericksburg, Va., was the best man. The ushers were William Baldwin of Philadelphia, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Todd Forsythe of Wayland, brother of the bride; Robert Didas of Mansfield, Mass., uncle of the bridegroom; Tom Costello of Arkport and Bruce Wolfinger of Livonia.

Jane Schubmehl of Wayland, sister of the bridegroom, was the flower girl. The ringbearer was Craig Forsythe of Wayland, cousin of the bride.

The six bridal attendants were attired in aqua satin gowns styled with sweetheart necklines, Basque waistlines and short pouf sleeves trimmed with bows. They carried bouquets of peach and white daisies and peach carnations.

The flower girl, wearing an aqua satin gown with a ruffled skirt and short pouf sleeves, and a white satin hair bow, carried a bouquet of peach and white daisies.

About 300 people attended a buffet-dinner reception at the American Legion Club in Wayland.

The bride graduated from Wayland Central School and attended Alfred State College. She is employed at the Rochester Psychiatric Center.

Her husband, a graduate of Wayland Central School, served three years in the Air Force. He is employed at MK Mechanical Services Inc. in Rochester.

The couple spent their honeymoon in the Pocono Mountains, Pennsylvania.

Pair Wed in Ossian Church Ceremony.

The marriage of Lisa Marie Stauring of Arkport and Joseph Edward Leiter of Dansville took place at noon Saturday (Aug. 8, 1987) at the Ossian Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Michael Krembs performed a double-ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Stauring and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Leiter.

The altar was decorated with red and white global arrangements and candelabra. Katherine Heineman of Dansville was the organist.

The bride's gown, made by her mother, was fashioned with a lace fitted bodice adorned with seed pearls, a scalloped lace band collar, gathered sleeves, a plenum and a chiffon over taffeta skirt. The lace-trimmed hemline flowed into a chapel train. She wore a lace and pearl tiara with an illusion veil and carried a cascade of red and white rosebuds, stephanotis and babies'-breath accented with red and white beaded ribbon streamers.

A buffet luncheon was served for about 150 guests during a reception at the South Dansville Fire Hall. Music was provided by The Sound System.

The bride is a 1982 graduate of Arkport Central School and attended SUNY Fredonia. She is employed at Bell's Market in Dansville.

The bestman was Todd Stauring of Spencerport. Craig Stauring of Cohocton and Robert Jacobs of Nunda were the ushers.

The bridal attendants were attired in red satin gowns fashioned with off-the-shoulder necklines, short pouf sleeves and shirred bodices. Red floral headpieces and white fireside baskets filled with red and white carnations and babies'-breath completed their ensembles.

The bridegroom, who completed service with the Navy, is employed at Tops Market in Dansville. He owns and operates Valley Road Small Engine Repair.

The couple reside on Valley Road, Dansville, since their return from a wedding trip to Ohio.
